

ALEXANDRIA.

SATURDAY EVENING, JUNE 2, 1866.

Mr. Huyck testified before the committee appointed by the House of Representatives to investigate the affairs of the Merchants' National Bank, that he had offered to pay forty cents on the dollar to the creditors of that bank. This offer was verbally made to the Secretary of the Treasury, on condition that the bank was allowed to go on, and all its assets be placed in the hands of Mr. Huyck, and that he be allowed to remain President of the

Do the newspapers which now talk of "Reconciliation" between the President and the Radicals, because the Senate has modified, somewhat, the ultraism of the "Reconstruction" (?) Committee, think that, after what has passed, there can be any farther political alliance patched up? If the radicals yield they will hate Andrew Johnson more than ever; and if they triumph over him, human nature must show itself on his part, and it is right, in | South during the war, has been pardoned. His this case, that it should.

The shipments of gold by the steamers to Europe since the first day of January have amounted to twenty nine millions six hundred and ninety-one thousand dollars. The gold sales by the Treasury since May 1st amount to thirty-six millions. Thus more gold has been supplied by the Treasury by privrte sales, independently of the amount paid out for interest, than has been exported. The stock of gold has also been kept up by large receipts from California.

There is not a particle of truth in the telegraphic dispatch about Gen. Fitzhugh Lee being with the Fenians in their late reported movements. At the very moment he was reported as leading the "Fenian cavalry," he was, probably, in this town quietly spending the evening with his young friends-thinking

The funeral ceremonies in honor of General Winfield Scott, at West Point yesterday, were very impressive. They were attended by a large number of distinguished men from all parts of the country, representing Congress, the army, and the navy. Many State and municipal governments were also represented.

On Thursday the House of Repsesentatives decided, by a vote nearly two to one, in favor of the principle that Congress has the right, for postal and military purposes, to give authority for the construction of railroads in SOUTHERN RAILROADS. - A Washington dispatch recently stated that President Johnson, witnout authority of law, had given the goveroment rolling stock on the Southern railroads valued at $200,000,000, to those companies, receiving their notes in payment, which notes had been protested, and that the whole amount had thus been lost to the government. This as we learn from the Philadelphia Ledger, was eltogether erroneous. The sale of rolling stock on the Southern roads was authorized by law, and was carried out by the Secretary of War and the Quartermaster General, the President having nothing to do with the matter except to approve the general orders under which the sales were made. Two-thirds of the amount of the sales were made for cash, and the money | To the Honorable President and was at the time deposited in the Treasury of the United States. The credit sales, instead of amounting to $200,000,000, as stated, amounted to but $7,400,690,61, and these credits were secured, first by the deposit of railroad bonds to double their amount, and secondly, by a lien on all the property sold-that which had been paid for, as well as that which was in my opinion, requires legislative action, viz: vet to be paid for. Instead of their notes being "under protest to millions," as stated, the purchasers have already met all the instalments due on account of their purchase, having paid $768,655 47 on account, leaving a bal ance due the Government of $6,839, 690 49, including interest, amply secured.

TUNKER ORDINANCE. - Some of the proceedings of the immence meeting of the Tunk- houses borne down with affliction and disease. ers, which lately took place at Price's Church, In the first place, it is attended necessarily with near Waynesboro', are of an interesting character. Several negroes being admitted into the Church as members, the question arose in regard to the usual salutation, whether it was to be carried out with regard to the colored brethern on meeting them. Our readers are all aware, no doubt, that it is the universal cause of its appearance) may contribute to its custom among the Tunkers of the male sex to spread. I would suggest that you take some salute each other with a kiss upon meeting .-This was the question that now sprung up, on the abmission of the members, and it found warm op, osition, but was finally carried triumphantly. The question was settled that it was a religious duty to salute all their brethren, no matter whether they be black or white, ration any ordinance you may suggest. and the white brethren were instructed upon meeting with a colored one, providing they could do so consistently, to make the first advance, and then if the colored member should refuse to be kissed, he was not bound to insist upon the honor of imprinting the kiss upon his lips. The white brother was simply to fulfill liet, produced $3,000. Well done, good old his religious duty-nothing more.

THE CONFEDERATE DEAD IN RICHMOND. Most of the associations collected at Grace Church in the city, and from that point to Hollywood the distance is about half a mile, the road for the most of the way running over a common. From balf past eight to eleven o'clock A. M., there was one unbroken tide of human life between the two points, and standing on the height cast of the cemetery one might see what seemed to be an endless procession, composed of men, women and children on foot, in carriages, buggies, wagons and omnibuses, winding out of Richmond and losing itself beneath the shade of the groves of Hollywood.
